Security Benefits In Ulster Reach $30,000 Figure

Blumberg States This Amount Is Paid Out Monthly to 1,508

A total of 1,508 men, women and children in Ulster county are receiving monthly Social Security benefit payments amounting to more than $30,000, as the tenth anniversary of the opening of the Kingston office nears, Jerome S. Blumberg, manager of the Kingston office of the Social Security Administration, said today.

"The Kingston office was opened on February 15, 1937, at 277 Fair street, and moved to its present location in the central post office building in 1938.

"As in all parts of the nation, comparatively few retired wage earners in the Ulster county area qualified for benefits in 1937. Mr. Blumberg said "This was the first year they were payable, but today a total of 1,508 persons are receiving earned retirement or survivors' benefits each month that total $30,000."

Established by the Social Security Act of 1935, the program originally was confined to benefits for disabled wage earners who had reached the age of 65 and retired from employment in industry and commerce. In 1939, an amendment to the Act added survivors' insurance to the system.

Advice at 455 Offices
The first 108 local offices were established in various parts of the country in 1935, and by 1939, 327 field offices were functioning. Today, there are 455 offices throughout the nation to give every person who needs information and services necessary to the program's operation.

Program Expands
John Form was the first manager of the local office, in 1937 and was followed by Simon Dubler, Reuben Blane and Charles E. Burke, who preceded Mr. Blumberg.

The field office is the point of personal contact of the worker with the agency administering the program under which he is earning insurance rights in employment covered by the Social Security Act. Benefits received through application at the field office are based on wages earned in covered employment, records of which are kept at the Baltimore headquarters of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

Naturally, the old-age and survivors' insurance program has grown frequently from approximately 100,000 beneficiaries in 1939 to a total of more than 1,600,000 who are receiving more than $1,500,000 in benefits every month.

Hits Strikes on State In Senate Legislation

Attorney Declares Union Would Lose Because of NLRB

Independent Union Target of Board, Weirton Lawyer Declares at Capitol

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Earl F. Reed, attorney for the Weirton Steel Company, today accused the National Labor Relations Board of trying "in every way to wipe out" an independent union at the firm's West Virginia plant.

Reed laid this charge before the Senate Labor Committee as Foreman Johnston, counsel for the National Coal Association, waited to testify on his contention that a new mine strike is "inevitable" July 1 unless one of two things happen.

Either John L. Lewis must give up his five-cent-a-ton royalty for a union health and welfare fund, Johnston said, or Congress must enact a law forbidding strikes over such issues.

July 1 is the date the government must return the seized pits to private ownership. In contending the NLRB is out to break the Weirton independent union, Reed declared that the board installed its own representatives "in the C.I.O. union headquarters to coach paid C.I.O. organizers as to the methods they should use to get on the (Weirton) payroll."

He further asserted: "Board representatives attended secret conferences at which C.I.O. leaders paid bribes to officers of the independent union to induce them to betray it by going over to the C.I.O."

Urges Revision
Reed urged a revision of the Wagner Labor Relations Act to assure NLRB recognition of independent unions and to "rehabilitate the faith of the working man in our system of law and justice."

He also recommended that the act be changed so employers could fire workers who strike for more than 60 days "as a test of economic strength in a demand for higher wages or shorter hours or better working conditions."

This is less drastic than a provision of a bill introduced by Senator Ball (R-Minn.). That measure would authorize employers to fire strikers immediately if they turned down back-to-work offer made at any time.

The Senate committee also heard Rep. Francis Case (R-S.D.), who is the author of a revised and expanded version of the Case Bill. President Truman vetoed last year. The new measure, which Case explained, would authorize the government to block serious strikes by court injunction, overhauled the Wagner Act, and impose a number of restrictions on labor unions.

Case declared that the emphasis in any new labor legislation must be "on the peaceful settlement of disputes by the parties themselves."

He said that in his bill "I have sought to avoid anything either labor or management to lose their troubles in the lap of the government, hoping thereby to get a better deal than they could through collective bargaining."

Latin America Will Be Best Market for U.S., Speaker Says

"In Latin America lies the largest potential foreign market this country will ever see," said Ralph Hancock, economic authority and student of the southern neighbors, at the regular meeting of Kingston National Dinner Club Tuesday night. "That market alone would be all we would need... plus our own market to keep our factories rolling about the same as the war momentum," he explained.

Hancock spoke from personal observations in the Latin American countries both as a foreign correspondent and more recently working on economic commissions for the government. He is concerned with the arousing interest in Central and South America for the general benefit of people living in the United States, he said, and he urged small business men to investigate possibilities for trade as well as the large companies.

Denoting some fallacies in dealing with South America, Mr. Hancock reported that the United States loaned about nine billion dollars to these countries between the two world wars and at least eight billion dollars of this loan was used to purchase materials from Germany and European countries, who in turn built up strong war machines.

"Of the 350 American agents representing this country's business and government in 1939 in Latin America, less than 50 could speak the languages of the country to which they were assigned." On the other hand Mr. Hancock said that he never found a German, Italian or Japanese agent who could not only speak the language of the country but also the dialect of the particular area. Although he did mention some men who have done their best, his

Esopus Legion Post Votes to Purchase Port Ewen Locale

Vets Plan to Construct Building on Land Opposite to Ross Park

Six building lots will be purchased by the Town of Esopus Post No. 1298, American Legion, as the site of its Memorial Home, the post decided at a meeting last night.

The property with 100 feet frontage on Stout street and 210 feet on Bowen street, will be bought from D. H. Howard, of Port Ewen and George A. Neher, of Woodstock. The post reported that it has virtually enough funds on hand for the purchase, but indicated it will intensify its efforts to boost its building fund.

A first major move to add to the building fund is scheduled for February 20 at the Penguin where a New York floor show and dance will be given. Facilities of the Port Ewen night club were offered for the purpose by Thomas Costanzi, a member of the organization.

The decision to buy the land resulted at a recent session of the building committee in which several possible sites were discussed. Definite action on plans for the structure is pending but the post expects to act on plans at an early date.

A goal of 200 members was announced by the membership committee, which announced that the post now has 180 members. An attendance of 60 was reported at last night's meeting.

Vice-Commander Charles Atkins was appointed chairman of the Fourth of July program and Jules Vignello was named Post Boys State Chairman for arrangements to send a youth from the Town of Esopus to the Empire Boys State to be held at Colgate University June 22 to 28.

The post reported a donation of $25 to its building fund by Anthony Zoda. It announced also that a pair of rifles for its color guard is being chrome plated by the Electrol and Hercules plants.

Scouts to Get Award

Mooshearth, Ill., Feb. 12 (AP)—The Loyalty Order of Moose announced today its annual $5,000 "Golden Rule" award this year would go to the Boy Scouts of America. Malcolm R. Giles, supreme secretary and executive director, said that in addition to the $25,000 award, "every A Moose lodge will select a worthy citizen or character-building project in its own community and make additional contributions to its support or growth." "Each lodge will choose its own beneficiary," he added.

Regents Are Elected

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The State Legislature, in joint session, today formally elected to the Board of Regents three new members nominated by the Republican majority in the Senate and Assembly yesterday. Named to the governing body of the state "educational system" were: Roger W. Strain, 55, New York city industrialist and personal friend of Governor Dewey; Mrs. Frank E. Gannett, wife of the Rochester publisher, and Welles V. Moot, 61, Buffalo industrialist.

Six Million Out of Work In England

Coal Crisis Places Those People on Dole, Is Report; Forecast Is for Increase

New Orders Given

Conservation Order Is Drafted; Expected Tonight

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Ministry of Fuel and Power announced today that domestic electricity restrictions would be extended throughout the country tomorrow.

British Folk Feel Shutdown

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—A board of trade spokesman estimated today that between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 workers had been thrown out of their jobs, many onto the dole, by Britain's unprecedented coal crisis.

New blizzards and freezing rains, which the labor government said had blocked rail lines and disrupted shipping added to the hardship.

The spokesman for the Board of Trade, a government bureau comparable to the U. S. Department of Commerce, forecast an even greater shutdown for next week, with unemployment spreading to all parts of the country.

"This is going to affect rationing, clothing, household appliances, shoes—everything," he said. "Most people don't yet realize the most serious personal effects this will have on everyone."

The government drafted new conservation orders for coal from official reports that the drastic shutdown affecting more than half of England's factories had failed thus far to help in building up coal stockpiles at electric generating plants, these were the principal developments in the desperate industrial crisis.

1. The fuel ministry officially warned next outside the 38-county "blackout" area last night that power restrictions may have to be extended to the whole country, except the north of Scotland.

2. Fresh snow falls and wintry gales immobilized millions of tons of coal loaded on 75,000 railroad cars and 125 ships. Snow drifts isolated dozens of villages in the midlands and Northern England and the Royal Air Force planned to drop 10 tons of food today in the Staffordshire area.

3. The government ordered out troops to clear snow-blocked highways and railroads. The navy was reported considering the use of radar-equipped patrol boats to escort coal ships down the foggy coast and ordering submarines into the Thames to pipe electricity from their powerful generators into London's power lines.

Cooperation Is Not Good

4. Public cooperation in observing a five-hour ban each day on the use of electricity in homes was reported "not so good as on Monday." The fuel ministry said Tuesday's consumption of electricity was nearly 500,000 watts higher than Monday.

The cabinet, deliberating the possibility of extending the power cut which already has brought unemployment to an estimated 4,000,000 Britons, was faced with an air ministry forecast that no relief from icy weather and snow was in sight "for several days."

Attempts to parachute food supplies to midland villages were blocked Tuesday by bad weather. One town reported by telephone that it had had no meat or bread for 10 days and the R.A.F. worked at plans to drop food for 3,000 villagers in 10 towns in the Staffordshire area.

Woman Is Hurt As Jeep, Car Crash

Mrs. Mary Guadagnolo Is Taken to Hospital; Condition 'Good'

One person was injured and a 1946 jeep and a passenger car were damaged slightly in a collision, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning at the corner of Clinton avenue and Henry street.

Mrs. Mary Guadagnolo, 43, of 182 Washington avenue, suffered a back injury and was conveyed to the Kingston Hospital by Michael Goffredi, Sr., who lives near the scene of the accident. Her condition was reported good by hospital authorities this morning.

Mrs. Guadagnolo is the wife of Joseph Guadagnolo, local tavern proprietor, who was killed in an automobile accident near West Coxsack about 6 o'clock Monday evening.

The jeep was operated by Herbert Inman, Jr., of the Hillside apartments, Greenlawn avenue while James J. Carpio, of 132 Washington avenue, was driving the passenger car. Riding with Carpio, in addition to Mrs. Guadagnolo, were Julia Carpio, Virginia Guadagnolo, of the same address, and Catherine Petramate and Peter Mancuso, all of whom escaped injury.

The Inman jeep was damaged in the front end and there was

Edison Memorial Stamps Go On Sale Following Ceremony

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—A memorial issue of Thomas A. Edison postage stamps went on sale over the country today following ceremonies held in 20 American cities yesterday on the 100th anniversary of the inventor's birth.

Queen Elizabeth of England and Princess Elizabeth were among many foreign collectors who placed advance orders for the stamps.

Post office officials presented sets of the stamps yesterday to Charles Edison, son of the inventor and former governor of New Jersey, at New York city ceremonies, and to his sister, Mrs. Madeleine Edison Sloane, at Milan, Ohio, the inventor's birthplace.

At a luncheon here of the Edison Pioneers, made up of friends and associates of the inventor, a telegram from President Truman to Edison's widow was read.

"The world in which we live would have been a poorer place without the heritage which the genius of Thomas A. Edison gave us as a permanent contribution to our daily comfort and convenience," the President said.

At Fort Myers, Fla., a "pageant of light" is being presented this week as an Edison memorial. Establishment of annual $15,000 memorial scholarships was announced by Dr. Robert C. Clothier, vice president of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation and president of Rutgers University.

Leaders of industries founded on Edison's inventions were among the 1,000 persons who attended a banquet here last night. Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching, told the gathering that Edison's contributions and influence had revolutionized modern transportation, communication, entertainment, education and illumination.

"We are too close to his life and work to be able to appraise it fully," Dr. Carmichael said.

Also Gives Authority Extension

Measure Also Requires Concurrence by State Public Works Chief, Bridge Authority

Provides Financing

Bridge Authority Would Get Right to Issue Bonds

Republican Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of this city, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, announced today that the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge bill was reported out of his committee at Albany.

The bill, which authorizes the continuation of the New York State Bridge Authority and empowers the authority members to build the span across the Hudson river, was introduced in the legislature January 8.

Senator Wicks said today that action on the bill in the Senate will not take place until next week.

The measure, one of the first introduced in the legislature this year, will be known as the Wicks-Hatfield bill. Action in the Assembly by co-sponsor Ernest I. Hatfield, Dutchess Assemblyman, was taken January 9.

Requires Concurrence

The Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge bill introduced in the 1946 legislature and voted by Governor Thomas E. Dewey after unanimous passage by the Senate and Assembly, made it obligatory for the State Bridge Authority to construct the span.

The bill reported out of committee today requires unanimous action by the Bridge Authority and the State Superintendent of Public Works, if it shall be found in the public interest to construct the bridge.

Continues Bridge Authority

Another feature of the 1947 Wicks-Hatfield bill is that the Bridge Authority shall be continued as long as it shall have bonds or other obligations outstanding, and until it shall be discontinued by law.

"Thus, the new bill, while implementing the bridge construction by law, also, political observers say, provides an official control not only for supervision of the span during construction but as well for its operation over a period of years after its completion."

Bond Limit Raised

One important feature of the new bill is that the Bridge Authority is authorized to issue eight million dollars of bonds outstanding at any one time, instead of the present limit of three million dollars of bonds; and the bonds would be redeemable in a period not exceeding 10 years at a premium not exceeding five per cent.

The Bridge Authority also is given power to issue a short term note maturing not later than five years, provided that the bonds and note together shall not exceed the limit of eight million dollars.

No Other Spans in Area

By terms of the bill the State also agrees that there will be no additional highway crossings of the Hudson river south of a line 15 miles north of the Rip Van Winkle Bridge and north of the city of New York.

Can Maintain Tolls

The Bridge Authority also is authorized, after the satisfaction of its present outstanding bonds, to maintain tolls at rates which will enable it to accumulate a surplus, and to invest such surplus in bonds of the United States or the State of New York.

STAMPS in the NEWS

AP Features

France has contributed five beautifully engraved pictures of its medieval cathedrals to pulchritude gallery of art. The five cent postage stamps should be a welcome addition to any collector's album and especially to those of collectors specializing in religious subjects. Churches pictured include Notre Dame Cathedral of Paris, which curiously has never before been portrayed on a French stamp. It appears on a 10-plus-6 franc green value. A 1-plus-1 franc rose denomination presents the St. Sernin Cathedral at Toulouse, said to be the most perfect Renaissance type of building in France. The Notre Dame du Port Church at Clermont-Ferrand, where Peter the Hermit preached the First Crusade in 1096, appears on a 3-plus-2 gray and St. Front Cathedral of Perigueux fashioned in the Byzantine style of architecture, is shown on a 4-plus-3 red brown value. Le Mans' St. Julien Cathedral, which contains the tomb of Berengaria, queen of Richard the Lion Hearted, is pictured on a 6-plus-4 blue.

France also has presented these other famous cathedrals on earlier stamps: Reims (Scott's 217 and B74); Strasbourg (389); Angoulême, Chartres, Amiens, Beauvais and Albi (B185-189) and Church of the Invalides, Paris (B273).

Alexander Graham Bell is correctly regarded as an American scientist, but he had many ties to Canada. The Dominion was his first home when he came to this continent in 1870 from Scotland, and he died in Baddeck, Nova Scotia, Aug. 1, 1922.

Accordingly, it is not surprising that Canada has announced it will issue a four-cent stamp March 3 to mark the 100th anniversary of Bell's birth. The stamp will show a symbolic figure of Fame placing a wreath on the effigy of Bell. First day covers will be serviced from Brantford, Ontario, and collectors may send covers to the postmaster at Brantford with remittance payable to the Receiver General of Canada for the stamps to be affixed.

Bell also was honored by Argentina on a 1944 stamp (Scott's B3). This country honored Bell on the 10-cent value of the 1940 Famous Americans series (Scott's 893). Incidentally, the latter stamp commands the highest value of the Famous Americans series—$1.50 for a mint copy, by the Standard Catalogue listing.

Collectors of Philippine stamps are wondering whether the appearance of the famous Mayon volcano in Southern Luzon has been changed by recent eruptions of the volcano. A 20-centavo value of a forthcoming issue of the new Philippine Republic will picture the volcano as it appeared before its latest outburst.

The Precancel Stamp Society will hold its 26th annual convention at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, Aug. 21-24. The Capital Precancel Club of Washington will be host. A red, white and black convention sticker may be obtained from C. C. Fisher, 1206 N. Frederick St., Arlington, Va., by sending a return-addressed stamped envelope.

Stamp collectors visiting New York city in the next few months can see special stamp exhibitions at the New York Museum of Science and Industry, 30 Rockefeller Plaza. The exhibitions, which will end April 25, are intended as a preview of the Centenary International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York city May 17-25.

Later last year, Russia commemorated the 25th anniversary of Soviet stamps (1921-46) by issuing three stamps featuring reproductions of earlier stamps. Miniatures of nine stamps appear on a red map of Russia. A railroad locomotive and a steamship are pictured on a 15-kopeck value. A 1921 stamp (Scott's 187) is shown on a 30-k green and a dozen or more miniatures of stamps of the Soviet are depicted on a 60-k green.

Sweden issued two stamps, a 20-ore red and a 30-ore ultramarine, to mark the 50th anniversary last Dec. 10 of the death of Alfred Nobel (1833-96), founder of the Nobel Prizes. His portrait appears on both stamps.

Post Office Department officials in Washington are giving consideration to issuance of stamps dedicated to the nation's industry and another series of scenic designs. Next to be announced, however, probably will be new airmail stamps since there is a definite need for a 25-cent denomination to cover the new airmail rate.

Kent B. Stiles, stamp editor of the New York Times, reports that incomplete returns show that 2,312 varieties of stamps were issued by 266 governments in 1946. His compilation shows Hungary leading the list with 94 and Russia second with 74 stamps last year.

Liberia has issued two stamps of the same design, a five-cent light blue for regular postage and a 25-cent light green for airmail, to commemorate the beginning of its Monrovia harbor project. The stamps picture a large crane in action and bear the inscription "President Tubman opens harbor project Monrovia Feb. 16, 1946." —George A. Scott.

SPIRIT OF LINCOLN

To Abraham Lincoln, the Union was all-important. Keeping the states together in the United States of America was the main issue. On this issue he won the war, and for winning it he died.

It is hard now to realize that when the infant states were brought together to function as one union the idea was almost as new in the world as that of the United Nations is now. A few thinkers had held such a hope for united groups in centuries gone by, but never before had so close a union been worked out into actual practice. When the time came that the union could not function half-slave and half-free, and the slave states tried to break out of the union, it took a bitter war to keep all the states together.

No one today—not the hardest southern die-hard—would wish the issue to have been otherwise. Diverse as were and still are the points of view of its component states and the citizens thereof inside their states, the union is one and must remain one.

Today the United Nations is an infant in arms, howling its baby head off when its feet want to go one way and its hands another. But its brain and its physical coordination are growing. If it can be kept alive and given proper care and nutriment, it should grow to strong and useful manhood.

Meanwhile, if the Spirit of Union which imbued Lincoln's life and thought could be held firmly by individuals, it might spread through the world and inspire the youngling.

TUNNELING THE CHANNEL

The English Channel tunnel is up again. A Parliamentary committee is considering this old-time project's 1947 version, which estimates the cost of a 30-mile tunnel at $120,000,000.

The tunnel would delight the multitudes of sea-sick travelers who have dread the Channel crossing to France. The objections hitherto have been not financial but strategic. The British have feared that a tunnel would lay them open to invasion. Memories of the Channel as a barrier against the Spanish Armada and Napoleon are still vivid.

Nowadays with planes and long-range guns the Channel has lost much of its defensive strength. Still the prospects are good that the conservative British will stay on the safe side and defeat the tunnel project as they have done many times before.

WE NEED FRIENDS

A useful reminder to Americans has come from General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine hero of the war and now his country's delegate to the United Nations.

"Never before," says General Romulo, "have you needed friends more than you need them now, because you are at the height of your power, in the heyday of your glory. But Babylon, Greece and Rome were great nations too. They rose to the heights of power, but they fell. America needs friends to maintain her power and prestige always at the highest level. She can do that only if she realizes always those spiritual intangibles which no atomic bomb can destroy."

Those bumptious citizens who think the United States so powerful that we can disregard other nations' feelings and welfare have not read history.

NEXT DOOR TO EVERYBODY

The extent to which the world has shrunk is set forth dramatically and vividly in the announcement that now there is air service connecting New York City with Johannesburg, South Africa, in 44½ hours, exclusive of one overnight stop either in Portugal or Liberia. A glance at the map makes such news, even for this air-minded generation, a startling bit of information.

It's hard to rearrange thinking from the conception of Johannesburg being a many-weeks voyage away, to the realization that it is no farther off than a week-end trip. On such a practical fact as this, must all international relations be based. The world's front-

POOR LONELY SOUL

As I walked about New Salem, Illinois, early this winter, I felt the presence of Abraham Lincoln, a poor, lonely soul, the son of the Hankses, who were no better than they should be, and the Lincolns, who were as they were. I wandered from cottage to cottage and into the tavern where he courted Ann Rutledge and sensed his loneliness, there on the edge of the woods.

For Lincoln was a man of dreams. And although he could be a jolly good fellow and tell stories, and get down to earth, he raised himself above the clay and went into his world of dreams. And each year we celebrate his birthday. He did not require mechanical aids to win his place in our memories.

There are historical figures like Lincoln, men who lived unafraid, who dared to be themselves, who walked in a faith that knew neither vengeance nor malice, but they did know God and goodness and never compromised with their knowledge of the right. And rare as such men are, they are still more rare in politics, for somehow in that world of trades and deals and meeting things halfway, even good men reduce themselves to a condition that they themselves would criticize in others.

Abraham Lincoln replied to some citizens of Maryland on October 19, 1864. It was not many months before the end of his travail. He said:

"I am struggling to maintain the Government, not to overthrow it. I am struggling especially to prevent others from overthrowing it. I therefore say, that if I live, I shall remain President until the 4th of next March, and that whoever shall be constitutionally elected, in November, shall be duly installed as President on the 4th of March, and in the interval I shall do my utmost to do whatever I believe to be for the best of the country. I shall start with the best possible chance of saving the ship. This is due to the people, both on principle and under the Constitution. Their will, constitutionally expressed, is the ultimate law for all. If they should deliberately resolve to have immediate peace, even at the loss of their country and their liberties, I know not the power or the right to resist them. It is their own business, and they must do as they please with their own."

"If I live," somehow it was in his mind that it might not be. The election of 1864 witnessed his re-election and in the following March, he spoke his second inaugural and then before the year was spent, he had been killed.

How many of our present problems would never have been facing us had he lived to complete his second term, we shall never know. History does not deal with what might have been. History concerns itself with the actual, and halts at the border of the probable.

What might have been our country without the "Solid South," a political entity that votes not on principle but by tradition? Certainly, neither the Republican nor the Democratic parties would have been as they now are, and a conservative union in 1947 might have saved us much confusion and heartache and such a conservative union is so essential now to put down the bartering for place and power which is already reducing the stature of the present Congress. This country, under a two-party system, would have divided vertically between those who would preserve its life within its traditions and those who would constantly change its life outside its traditions. Instead, we still divide horizontally between North and South, the South often voting against itself in the service of the confusions that emanate like unwholesome odors from the big cities of the North. It is an historical paradox from which a living Lincoln might have saved us by his kindness and charity.

"For, he said to soldiers:

"... It is in order that each one of you may have, through this free government which we have enjoyed, an open field, and a fair chance for your individuality and growth. And that you may all have equal privileges in the race of life with all its desirable human aspirations."

SURGERY OR THYROIDECTOMY FOR GOITER

I have spoken before of a physician friend who, three weeks after having his thyroid removed for goiter, walked from his office to mine—several blocks—and asked me to take his pulse. He sat down and I found his heart beat (pulse) to be 72. As it had been 110 some months previously, he answered my look of surprise by stating, "I had my thyroid gland removed three weeks ago today and I wondered how I was coming along." It is these excellent and surprising results that cause physicians to prescribe surgical removal of the thyroid instead of the new drug, thiouracil, despite the good results obtained by thiouracil in so many cases.

As mentioned before, X-ray treatment of goiter requires several treatments and an average of nine months to obtain results which are uniformly good. The X-ray treatment is given where the patient doesn't wish to undergo operation or where the physician advises against operation.

What about the new drug, thiouracil, which is now being used in many cases?

As stated before, I did not write about thiouracil for a number of months after it came into general use because there were many reactions, more or less severe. However, there were so many favorable reports that I have reported them as they came to hand from reliable sources.

That thiouracil will not replace surgical operation in the treatment of severe goiter is the opinion of Dr. A. S. Jackson in Surgery, Gynecology, and Obstetrics, Chicago, "because the health of the average patient with severe goiter may be restored by surgery within a few weeks, there seems little justification for subjecting him to months or years of treatment with a dangerous drug."

However, Dr. Jackson points out that the use of thiouracil is justified in certain cases:

1. Cases where there is no help whatever from iodine.
2. Where goiter is complicated with heart disease and diabetes.
3. Cases of severe goiter in the very young, the aged, the run down, the weak muscular heart.
4. Cases of nerve injury and pregnancy.
5. Cases of persistent and recurring attacks of severe goiter.

Dr. Jackson reports further that he has used thiouracil with success in preparing certain goiter patients for surgical operation as it lowers blood pressure and relieves the heart of some of its work.

AS PEGLER SEES IT
By W. STBROOK PEGLER

Many of my fellow robots, members of that inferior race known as the common man, have shared my feelings in the discovery that, as taxpayers, we have had the privilege of providing a furnished summer home for Harold L. Ickes, one of our severest patrons, at Acadia Park, Maine, at the "very moderate" rent of $50 a month. The phrase "very moderate" is not my own, but the language of Oscar Chapman, the assistant secretary of the Interior, and is modest to the point of bashfulness inasmuch as Senator Ralph Brewster, of Maine, says that a "fair competitive rental" would be $1,000 for the season, of about four months.

The "very moderate" rental was established during Mr. Ickes' tenure as secretary of the Interior, and is modest to the point of bashfulness inasmuch as Senator Ralph Brewster, of Maine, says that a "fair competitive rental" would be $1,000 for the season, of about four months.

Vinson Has Hard Time As Jurists Split Like Atom

Justices Go Every Which Way in Giving Their Opinions: Give 9 on Three Cases

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson encountered a harsh setback yesterday in his efforts to restore harmony to the Supreme Court.

His associate justices split almost every way possible in deciding only three cases. Six of them used 3,600 words to set forth their adamant legal views. They wrote nine different opinions in disposing of three suits.

Two of them upheld sections of the Hatch "clean politics" act. The third declared that tax money may be used to pay the cost of transporting pupils to Catholic as well as public schools.

Vinson could, however, find some measure of encouragement in two factors:

1. His colleagues did not resort to personal attacks as had occurred in several instances before he ascended to the bench last October.

2. One of yesterday's Hatch Act cases, on which four differing opinions were written, was a left-over from last term. Hence a majority of the jurists had made up their minds on that case before Vinson joined the court.

Two Split Opinions

So the score, so far as Vinson's influence was concerned, was really two split opinions rather than three. Up to yesterday, the court under his leadership has been handing down only a routine number of dissenting opinions, along with a sprinkling of unanimous decisions.

The most pointed of yesterday's dissenting remarks was that by Justice Jackson who, perhaps half-humorously, resorted to a quotation from Lord Byron.

Jackson objected to the court's 5 to 4 decision that tax money may be used to pay for hauling children to Catholic schools. He said "undertones" of the majority opinion advocating complete separation of church and state seemed discordant with the court's conclusion in support of the continuing of church and state in educational matters.

Jackson suggested the most fitting precedent was that of Byron's Julia, who "whispering 'I will never consent,'—consented."

Black Wrote Majority

Justice Black wrote the majority opinion in the parochial school case. Justice Frankfurter joined in Jackson's dissenting view. Justice Rutledge also wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Burton, Frankfurter and Jackson joined.

Dr. Louis D. Newton of Atlanta, president of the Southern Baptist convention, was in the courtroom when the decision was announced, termed the ruling a "dark shadow" portending a great and terrible cloud that may be drifting over every hamlet and dale.

In the other case which found the justices most seriously split, Justice Reed wrote the majority opinion upholding a Hatch Act provision forbidding employees of the executive branch of the federal government from active participation in political campaigns. This was the holdover case from last term.

Frankfurter wrote a concurring opinion in this case. Rutledge noted a dissent. Black wrote an opinion dissenting generally, and Douglas wrote an opinion dissenting in part.

May Cut Regular Army to 200,000; Other Force Plans

National Guard, Reserves Will Make Up U. S. Armed Detail of 5,500,000

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—War Department plans for a reduction of almost 200,000 in the size of the Regular Army and establishment of an "M-Day" force of 1,750,000 trained troops were disclosed today by members of the House Armed Services Committee. The plan depends on a universal training program to build up the National Guard and the organized reserves, committee members said, so that within one year from "M-Day" the force could be expanded to 5,500,000 men.

Just how quickly the reduction in the Regular Army will be effected, they said, depends largely on international developments. But they pointed out that President Truman's budget message to Congress contemplates maintaining a standing army of 1,070,000 during the year beginning July 1.

The entire Mobilization-Day setup, committee members said, is based on a three-point legislative program including universal training, merger of the armed forces, and coordinated scientific research and development.

Details were divulged following a meeting at the Pentagon yesterday attended by most members of the committee. Secretary of War Patterson, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, and other top army officials.

The 1,750,000 "M-Day" force would include 875,000 regulars, 600,000 National Guardsmen, 195,000 organized reserves, all ready to take the field on short notice. The rest of the 5,500,000 men expected to be on duty 12 months later would be drafted and former service men recalled to duty.

Lehman Urges Relief
New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Herbert H. Lehman, former governor of New York and first director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, urged President Truman in a telegram today that "this country dispatch immediately to England as many shiploads of coal as possible."

"While I am bitterly disappointed at the attitude of the British government towards Palestine," Lehman said, "I cannot permit this to blind me to the urgent needs and suffering of the men, women and children of Great Britain."

"These people are cold and millions have been forced out of work because of the lack of coal. . . . The dictates of humanity should impel us to hold out a helping hand now to the people of England who throughout the war fought so bravely by our side in defense of democracy."

"I firmly believe that pressure is being exerted from higher ups in an attempt to create public opinion against the possibility of teachers striking all over the state."

Barnett Public, representing the New York Teachers interests committee at the mass meeting, said "this bill is obviously the first attempt of the administration to try to freeze teacher salaries at their present level."

"It is very strange that the man who has introduced the only adequate bill to raise state aid to a sum required to pay teachers sufficiently should introduce a bill which would prevent teachers from exercising their constitutional rights."

Van Kleeck Pleads Innocent to Two Charges in Court

H. L. Steeger Accuses Taxi Driver of Leaving Accident and Assault

Samuel J. Van Kleeck, Jr., 21, of 146 Main street, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before City Judge Matthew Cahill this morning on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and third degree assault, and his trial was postponed until 10 a. m. Thursday. Bail of $1,000 was continued.

Young Van Kleeck was arrested by Officers Carl J. Nasiewicz and Guernsey Burger, Jr., at the Broadway Bus Terminal, 100 Broadway at 8:30 last night following an accident at the Railroad avenue crosswalk, near Broadway.

Van Kleeck was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Harry L. Steeger, 58, of 21 Furness street, who accused Van Kleeck of assaulting him and using abusive language after Van Kleeck's taxi cab had struck him and knocked him to the pavement. The defendant said his spine and left leg were injured by the fall.

According to Steeger's statement to the police, he arrived in Kingston on the West Shore train at 8:30 and walked down the tracks toward the Broadway crosswalk. He reached the sidewalk on Broadway, turned right and started up Broadway. He said he was carrying a travelling bag in each hand.

When he reached the crosswalk on Railroad avenue, Steeger said, he started across and was half-way over when he heard the horn of an oncoming car, but couldn't move any faster because of the weight of the bags.

Left Scene, He Says
The car struck him, Steeger charged, and knocked him to the pavement. He yelled at the driver and the taxi cab came to a stop. Steeger said he went over to the driver and requested him to wait until an officer arrived.

Instead of waiting for a policeman, the driver was unknown to him, pushed him in the chest, made a vile statement and then drove up Broadway, Steeger alleged. The plaintiff said he was able to secure the license number of the vehicle and reported it to the police, who picked up Van Kleeck about an hour later.

Van Kleeck, who was represented in court today by Attorney William R. Scully, denied the charges and requested a day's postponement of the trial in order to summon three witnesses who were passengers in the taxi cab.

Jailed on Sugar Charge
Louis J. Viole, of Albany, was sentenced to 30 days in the Ulster county jail, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny preferred by Fred Perkins, carnival concession operator, who makes his winter home at 42 Staples street, Kingston.

Viole, who was picked up in an Albany restaurant on Tuesday of this week by Detectives Wesley Cramer and Clarence Brophy of the Kingston police department, was charged with stealing 420 pounds of sugar on October 24, 1946.

Testified She Saw Theft
According to a sworn statement by Madeline Westfall, of 154 Albany avenue, while in her apartment that day she saw a person whom she subsequently learned to be Louis J. Viole, carrying away some bags containing merchandise of some kind from a truck which was parked in the yard in the rear of that address.

The merchandise was later identified as seven bales of sugar belonging to Mr. Perkins, for whom Viole worked at the time. The value of the sugar was set at $40. Mr. Perkins told the court that he had recovered approximately 300 pounds of the sugar while Viole had sold 120 pounds to a local restaurant.

Cites Bank Wages
During the testimony it was revealed that Viole had been employed by Mr. Perkins for about six months, having joined the Perkins' carnival in Gloversville.

The defendant and plaintiff disagreed on the amount of wages allegedly owed Viole. Viole told the court the $40 valuation, if the sugar represented back pay he felt he was entitled to.

Mr. Perkins' testimony might have involved the defendant on a more serious charge, Judge Cahill pointed out, and he sentenced Viole to 30 days in order to give him a chance to get a grip on himself and mend his ways.

Edward Wilkowski, of 27 Hanratty street, arrested by Officers Guernsey Burger, Jr. and Carl Janasiewicz for public intoxication last night on Delaware avenue, was given a one-day jail sentence. Judge Cahill gave Wilkowski credit for the time he had spent in the city hall jail and warned him not to appear before the court on any public intoxication charges in the future.

148 Jobs Are Open For Health Nurses, April Exams Slated

A statewide examination for public health nurses is scheduled to be held some time in April, according to Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission.

Announcing examinations for 148 available jobs, Secretary Bohan said that Ulster is cooperating with 32 other counties in an effort to recruit qualified candidates for public health nurses.

Ulster's salary for those entering the field is $2,000 a year.

A detailed list of vacancies throughout the state, and requirements for applicants may be obtained from the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, 240 Fair street. The phone is 4044.

Talmadge Is Declared New Georgia Governor

McDonough, Ga., Feb. 12 (AP)—Herman Talmadge was declared Georgia's legal governor today by Superior Court Judge Walter Hendrix in a suit brought by Lieut. Governor M. E. Thompson, who challenges Talmadge's right to the office.

Thompson's attorneys announced immediately that they would appeal the decision to the State Supreme Court. A Superior Court in Georgia is similar to a United States District Court, but appeals on matters concerning interpretation of the state constitution may be taken directly to the Supreme Court.

It was the second decision within a week on the controverted governorship. Superior Judge Claude H. Porter had previously ruled at Rome, Ga., that Thompson was the acting governor. Talmadge was not a party to this suit, however. It was brought by Thompson to force members of the Pardons and Parole Board to give him certain budgetary information as acting governor.

Talmadge charged that the Rome decision was "patently collusive" and that he had no knowledge that it was being called for hearing. It has already been appealed to the State Supreme Court and a hearing set for March 10.

Thompson, himself, brought the case before Judge Hendrix here. Both he and Talmadge were represented at hearings which were concluded Monday.

In addition to the two cases already decided another has been taken under advisement by Superior Judge Bond Almond, who promised a decision Saturday. This case, brought by the Fulton National Bank, asks the court to determine who is legally entitled to draw on Executive Department accounts in the bank.

Talmadge, who based his claim to the office on his election by the legislature to the term his father, Eugene Talmadge, was prevented by death from serving, was jubilant over today's court victory.

Thompson said the next decision remained with the State Supreme Court and "the people are entitled to the earliest possible decision." In Salt Lake City, Ellis Aron, who as governor first challenged Talmadge's right to the office, and later resigned turning the office over to Thompson, said the effect of the superior court decision "is not important." He added that he was still convinced the Supreme Court would uphold Thompson.

St. James Board Votes for Recall Of Pastor Williams

At a largely attended meeting of the official board in St. James Methodist Church, Tuesday night, members voted unanimously to ask for the return of their pastor, the Rev. W. Wesley Williams, for another year.

Their action will be submitted to the meeting of the fourth quarterly conference of the church which is to be held Sunday evening, February 23.

The board was informed that the Rev. Mr. Williams had received flattering offers from two New York City churches, to become pastor. These offers, however, were a very considerable increase in salary over that being paid by the Kingston church. It was stated that one of these churches was the Methodist Church at Mt. Vernon; the other was the leading Methodist Church in Newark, Conn., in the New York East Conference.

The pastoral relations committee was authorized by the official board to offer the Rev. Mr. Williams a substantial increase in salary, the amount being left to their discretion.

The Rev. Mr. Williams has served as pastor of St. James Church for five years, coming to Kingston in the spring of 1942 from the Haines Falls and Tannersville charge. He entered the ministry in 1934 as pastor of the Fleischmanns and Halcott Center churches. One of the leading members of St. James Church this morning that the Rev. Mr. Williams' pastorate here had been a very successful one and that, especially in work with the young people, much progress had been made. He was commended as a hard and sincere worker and the church organizations and activities of the church were said to have made noteworthy progress under his ministry.

Methodist Bishop Talks For Planned Parenthood

Detroit, Feb. 12 (AP)—Arguing for planned parenthood, Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam was on record today with the assertion that "it is better to rear a family of four or five healthy children than to breed a family of 20 children."

The opponents of planned parenthood recognize this fact, and therefore advocate continence to restrict the family to reasonable size, added the New York Methodist church starting at 12 o'clock tonight before members of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America Detroit branch.

Declaring that planning in the realm of parenthood "is an obligation at once sacred and patriotic," the bishop stated:

"Religious leaders who declare that sexual intercourse in the married state is solely for the purpose of procreation, and who dare designate all other sexual intercourse as just, seek to defile one of the most sacred of human relations."

Bus Passengers Escape Injury in Walkkill Mishap

Ten passengers and the driver of a Kingston bound Adirondack Transit bus escaped injury Monday when the bus went down an embankment four miles north of Walkkill when the driver, Carl Yetzer, lost control of the vehicle.

Yetzer, who was reported to have avoided a car which he reported had stopped on the highway ahead of his bus.

Trees off the shoulder of the road checked the bus on its plunge down a 10-foot embankment and prevented its overturning.

Proceeding north on Route 208 when a car ahead stopped, he attempted to pass to the right of the car but icy pavements caused the bus to skid. Passengers were transferred and continued on their way. Troopers Charles Austin and Charles Dobbs from Highland made an investigation.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

(Registered U. S. Patent Office) By Jiminy Hatlo

Headquarters in the Saddle. "The trouble with Hooker, Abraham Lincoln remarked, 'is that he's got his headquarters where his hindquarters ought to be.'"

Destroyed President Abraham Lincoln was once taken to task for his attitude toward his enemies. Associate—Why do you try to make friends of them? You should try to destroy them. Abraham Lincoln (gently)—Am I not destroying my enemies when I make them my friends?

Three famous Americans, born in February, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Thomas A. Edison, contributed much to preserve our nation. George Washington led our country thru the pangs of Valley Forge to victory. Abraham Lincoln died for his ideals—a great and humble man. Thomas A. Edison gave the world many wonderful inventions. Washington, Lincoln and Edison made this country famous for style of government that "shall not perish from the earth."

If you bear in mind Abraham Lincoln's famous words: "With malice toward none; with charity for all," and shape your present and future accordingly, it will create inner sunshine for you and those whom you contact. It leads to good will and paves the way to successful public relations.

Lincoln! On battle fields the green mounds lie. And crosses march beneath the sky. They are a grimmer sight today Than coats of blue or caps of gray. I wonder how HE felt to see The salvery that made: slaves for free. The slavery of blood and war. To rifle shot and cannon roar? To think that such a mighty cause Need such base means to set her laws? Perhaps the crosses see him go With shawl and hat, step soft and low. Long years have softened bitter fights Abe Lincoln bids his boys good night!

Elmendorf Street People Complain On House Peeper

The police department is investigating reports of complaints from the Elmendorf street area that an unidentified man has been peering into the windows of the houses on the street.

According to the police, the unidentified man has been knocking on the back window of the residence at 41 Elmendorf street for the past several days. The man is extremely punctual, the police say, and generally makes his appearance between 7:15 and 7:30 p. m.

The mysterious character, who is said to be about 6 feet tall and wears khaki trousers and a fedora hat, is believed to be the same person who shines a light in the bedroom window of the residence in the back of 41 Elmendorf street very frequently about 1:30 in the morning.

Reports also have come from that area that an unidentified man has been molesting children of the district.

Lincoln Day Dinner Is Sold Out

county has made reservations for more than 40 while Dutchess county will send 25 from Poughkeepsie. Schoharie county had also taken a large number of tickets. The unexpected response disposed of all reservations long before the deadline for reservations, which had been set for February 10.

It is planned to make an annual event of the dinner and the committee this year has arranged for a brilliant speaking program.

The program of speaking will be broadcast over Station WKNY beginning at 9 o'clock.

Oswald Heck, speaker of the New York State Assembly, one of the speakers will be presented by Assemblyman John F. Wadlin.

Majority Leader Halleck will be presented by Congressman Jay LeFevre of the 30th Congressional District.

Mr. Halleck, who was born in Jasper county, Indiana, August 22, 1900, resides at Rensselaer, Indiana, and was elected to the post of majority leader of the House when the Republicans took control of the 80th Congress on January 3, 1927. Prior to that he served on the Committee on Rules and the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. He served from December 8, 1943 until January 1947 as chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee. During World War I he served his country and since his election to Congress he has served continuously as the representative from the Second Congressional District of Indiana.

The dinner will start at 7:30 o'clock with the speaking portion commencing promptly at 9 when the session will go on the air.

The following tentative program has been arranged:

1—7:30 p. m. proceedings start.
2—Invocation, the Rev. Doctor Frank B. Seeley.

3—National Anthem; Vernon S. Miller, soloist; Sam Scudder, accompanist.

4—Prayer, Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom.

5—Dinner.
6—8:30 o'clock, introduction of special guests by Senator Wicks, chairman.

7—9 p. m., start radio time; chairman's remarks.

8—Introduction of Assemblyman John F. Wadlin by Senator Wicks.

9—John F. Wadlin's introduction of Oswald Heck, speaker, of Assembly.

10—Address of Oswald Heck, speaker of Assembly.

11—Introduction of Jay LeFevre, member of Congress by Senator Wicks.

12—Jay LeFevre, introduction of Charles Halleck, majority leader of the House of Representatives.

13—Address of Charles Halleck, majority leader, House of Representatives.

14—Benediction, the Very Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury.

Adirondack Hermit Is Ready for N. Y. Flight

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Noah Rondeau, 63-year-old bewhiskered hermit, was ready today to leave his lonely Adirondack's retreat for a ride, via helicopter, to New York city.

The helicopter, flown from Buffalo yesterday, stood by at nearby Lake Placid airport for the first of several scheduled landings to take Rondeau and his equipment to the National Sportsmen's Show opening Saturday. The equipment is to be displayed at the show.

Pete Fosburgh of the State Conservation Department said the helicopter probably would make "four or five shuttle trips" between the airport and Rondeau's cabin.

Fosburgh said Rondeau danced with apparent pleasure when a message was dropped informing him that the helicopter would transport him.

Earlier, the recluse had accepted a State Conservation Department invitation to appear at the show by tramping a big "yes" in the snow.

A conservation snowmobile also was sent over the snow-drifted trail toward the cabin at Cold River Flow, 22 miles from here, to be used if needed to carry out equipment.

Rondeau has lived 33 years in his isolated home.

Scientists Must Be Plain With Plumbers

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Scientists at the Bureau of Standards finally had to drop scientific lingo to get across their idea.

Dr. George Russell Harrison, dean of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, told the story in a lecture.

A foreign born plumber in New York city wrote that he had found hydrochloric acid did a good job of cleaning out clogged drains. The bureau wrote: "The efficacy of hydrochloric acid is indisputable, but the corrosive residue is incompatible with metallic plumbing."

900 Teachers Leave For Big Meeting

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Approximately 900 New York city teachers left for Albany at 9:10 a. m., today in a special 15-car train to attend a "school emancipation day" meeting in support of teachers' salary demands.

Mrs. May Andrews, feely, executive chairman of the teachers' salary conference, said the delegation represented every public school in the city.

A spokesman for the conference said that 1,000 parents would accompany a committee of teachers leaving at 9:10 a. m. tomorrow for Albany to attend a state budget hearing.

Course for Teachers To Begin February 13

New York University will offer a course in Educational and Vocational Guidance 1 for teachers and others interested in educational problems.

The class will meet for its first regular session Thursday, February 13, at the Vocational Building, next to the high school, from 7 to 9. It will be for three or two points of college credit.

This is a basic course including a rapid survey of history, principles, problems, procedures, organization, administration, and supervision of educational and vocational guidance. It is recommended as a first course in this field for counselors, deans, rehabilitation officers, social workers, homeroom and classroom teachers, principals, school administrators, club leaders, and others interested in guidance.

The instructor for the course will be Boyd R. Swern, who is Director of Guidance at Middle-town and was the instructor at the University Summer Session. Mr. Swern, in addition to a master's degree in guidance at the University of Michigan, has taken later courses in education at Ann Arbor, at Northwestern University, at Albany and at Columbia.

He has had teaching experiences at University of Michigan and Northwestern in addition to New York University. He combines the university instructor's viewpoint and that of the daily practitioner.

Gurney, Andrews Accuse Colleagues Of Periling Nation

Both Are Afraid Security Would Be Hamstrung if Appropriations Were Cut

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Republicans driving for a $6,000,000,000 slash in President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget were accused by two of their own leaders today of imperiling the nation's security and world peace.

Proponents of the economy move insisted, however, that this is not the case.

Chairman Gurney (R-S.D.), of the Senate Armed Services Committee declared the cut voted 8 to 2 by the Senate-House Budget Subcommittee would lop $1,750,000,000 off the $11,200,000,000 Mr. Truman asked for the army and navy.

"I cannot vote for anything that hamstringing national security," Gurney told reporters in announcing that he had abstained from the ballot. The vote followed a hurried trip to Capitol Hill late yesterday by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to plead against any impairment of funds for the nation's fighting forces.

Saying the committee action appeared to him to be one of "the same mistakes we made after the First World War," Gurney added: "We just got through spending $300,000,000,000 to win the war, and it looks like we could spend a few dimes now to win the peace."

Budget Slash Denounced
Gurney's counterpart on the other side of the capitol, Chairman Andrews (R-N.Y.), of the House Armed Service, also denounced the budget slash, asserting to newsmen:

"Some Republicans prior to the election made commitments having to do with budget and taxes. These commitments were made without knowledge of what is necessary for the time being to give us a reasonable chance to enforce the peace, in the Pacific, in Europe and through the United Nations."

"I am sure the majority of Americans, realizing the thing we want most is peace, are willing to forego a great decrease in taxation at this time to assure that peace."

The issue goes to a vote before the full 102-member budget committee Friday in what may be one of the hottest fiscal battles in history.

Chairman Bridges (R-N.H.), of the Senate Appropriation Committee who offered the motion to cut $6,000,000,000 of the President's budget, commented that "there was a feeling of a majority in the subcommittee that we are in no way affecting national defense."

Both Bridges and Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) disputed Gurney's estimate that the overall budget reduction would take $1,750,000,000 from the army and navy. They declined, however, to announce any breakdown on how the various departments would be cut.

It was learned that the budget slash contemplates firing at least 500,000 of the government's 2,300,000 civilian employees.

Holloway to Liberalize Annapolis Program

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 12 (AP)—Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, Jr., new superintendent of the Naval Academy, intends to liberalize the Annapolis education program to rid the institution of the "trade school" aura often attributed to it by reserve during the war.

Holloway, chairman of a wartime board on education of naval officers, said in a broadcast (MBS) yesterday.

"The Academy sometimes has been criticized as being over-specialized, too technical and lacking in breadth."

"We propose to stress the development of an understanding of people and knowledge of human relations, with the instruction in strictly naval subjects being more fundamental and less detailed for the embryo naval officer."

The Holloway board recommended a vigorous program of reserve officers' training in the nation's colleges in its wartime report, but the superintendent indicated yesterday the Academy will remain "the pillar of the Holloway plan."

Aviation studies also will be emphasized, he declared.

Trapani-Brescia Wedding Takes Place In St. Augustine's

Highland, Feb. 12.—The marriage of Miss Rose Brescia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brescia, White street, to Joseph Trapani, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Trapani, Milton, was performed at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. Augustine's Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Crew.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white Skinner satin gown en train, fashioned with a tear drop neckline and bodice embroidered with pearls. Her three tier veil was caught to a headdress of lilies of the valley. She carried white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Katherine Brescia, sister of the bride, wore a teal blue transparent velvet gown, headdress of American Beauty feathers, and carried American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids, the Meses Mary Mundy and Laura Brescia, a cousin of the bride, wore ensembles like the maid of honor's and carried talisman roses. The junior bridesmaids, the Meses Mary Trapani, sister of the bridegroom, and Theresa Powers, wore gold tulle gowns, matching hats and carried talisman roses and blue sweet peas.

The best man was John Calandrino. Ushers were Frank Valentino and Joseph Pucci.

The church was decorated with white snapdragons and white carnations. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Samuel Di Stasi.

A reception followed at the Grange Hall with music furnished by Al Spadaro's orchestra. Guests were present from New York City, New Jersey, Long Island, Poughkeepsie, New Paltz, Clinton, Milton and Marlborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Trapani left for a wedding trip to Atlantic City, N. J., Washington, D. C., and Virginia Beach. The bride wore for traveling a three-piece suit of grey with brown accessories. They will make their home in Milton.

WHEN CURLERS ARE WORN TO SUPPER!

A letter tells me: "There has been a controversy around my dormitory whether or not it is proper for some girls (those who have to fuss or look far from fetching!) to wear bandanas around their heads for supper, so they can have their hair in curlers before going to a dance. This alludes especially to Saturday evenings. Our supper is not social functions in any respect. No visitors are allowed and supper is served cafeteria style. The only ones present are the girls themselves."

Under the circumstances described, there should be no objection to the bandanas. As a matter of fact, with a bit of hair pulled forward from the back over any curler that shows, with an effectively made knot of bandana corners on top of the head and with exaggerated "costume" earrings, the fetching Carmen Miranda effect can be achieved.

Table Behavior

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me if it is bad table manners to put into a piece of buttered bread? That is, must the butter be put on a little piece or can it be put on a big piece. A friend of mine says it has to be buttered mouthful by mouthful.

Answer: The principal rule is not to take a whole slice of bread and butter it, but to put the butter on a piece of buttered bread.

A Question About Serving Coffee
Dear Mrs. Post: Is demitasse ever served at the dining table or is it served only in the living room after dinner?

Answer: On formal occasions, it is served in the living room. But on informal occasions, it can be served at the dining table.

Table Centerpiece at Engagement Dinner

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think a floral centerpiece would be a suitable table decoration at a dinner to announce an engagement or would a sort of bride's cake be better?

Answer: A floral centerpiece, decidedly! There will be plenty of time for the cake.

Do you know how to dispose of fruit pits at a dinner? The answer is found in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Table Rules of Importance," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. What do you mean, they proved the clothes were clean?

Just that! the ELECTRIC EYE proved it in a whole lot of scientific tests!

ELECTRIC EYE? What's that?

Why, Alice, it's a wonderful electronic discovery the makers of Soapine use to expose hidden dirt!

Gosh! What'll they invent next!

Yes, it shows that Soapine gets your clothes really clean every time!

So that's why your wash is so white! I'm going to try Soapine myself!

Your grocer may be out of it now, but keep on asking for Soapine till you get it!

How test is made — A piece of soiled fabric is washed with the soap being tested. It is then placed under the Electric Eye which shows, on a sensitive dial, the exact degree of whiteness attained. . . . It is a proven fact that no other soap of any type or at any price can get clothes cleaner than Soapine.

"Ask your grocer for Soapine today!"

Play Review Piano Tuner Joins Baer Studio

by SYLVESTER HOWARD

Sometimes a playwright has a very important idea. John Patrick is such a man. In his new play "The Life of Mary Surratt" he tells us that our democratic life depends on justice. He warns us that we must guard our liberties or else we shall have tyranny. The idea is, without doubt, sound. It is something that we often forget even though we have had too many examples in our generation. Mr. Patrick's sincerity, however, is his chief virtue. He is genuinely concerned about the problem, but he does not communicate his feeling to the audience.

Mary Surratt was convicted and executed for participating in the plot against Lincoln's life. According to the play, her trial was a travesty. The emotions involved in the case, and the bigotry which the Civil War did not suffice to lessen, made her the victim of gross injustice. Mr. Patrick shows her to be a simple, but strong and honest woman. He presents the case in a series of court room scenes which apparently tell the facts. His writing tells us what he thinks, but it does not stir us to think for ourselves. The play is completely weighted by dreary pronouncements which merely bore the hearers. At no time does the drama become eloquent or moving. His plot for justice never rises above court room arguments.

The cast is hampered by the general dullness of the script. Dorothy Clark is an actress who can portray a character realistically. There is little imagination in her acting. As her friend and counsellor, Kent Smith delivers his speeches with all the sincerity the role requires, but he too, is colorless. Elizabeth Ross tries to give moments of quaint humor to the part of the daughter, but at best it remains a flat character. The others in the cast have nothing but flat characters, never bringing their parts to life. The whole production suffers from a curious lack of animation. The lighting is dull, the clothes are gray, and the play takes on their tone. One cannot help being disappointed in this play, for it has a noble theme and it should be better. The author has made obvious attempts to go beneath the surface of his characters, but he does not live up to his ambitions.

The theatre needs plays which say something, and perhaps Mr. Patrick will be able to give us something in the future. For the present, his play does not measure up to a passing grade.

2 Spray Schools Set for Milton and Clintondale

Two sessions of the annual spray schools conducted under sponsorship of the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic, will be held in Ulster county next week.

Morning and afternoon sessions of the schools will be held at Clintondale and Milton, February 19 and 20. The first session slated for the Clintondale Grange Hall will start at 9:30 a. m. February 19. The school at Milton will start at the same time the following day in the Milton grade school.

The Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association will cooperate with the other sponsoring organizations, which include the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Sniping Pays Off
Anderson, S. C. (AP)—The traditional hazing operation of conducting a greenhorn on a snipe hunt, leaving him holding an empty bag out in the middle of nowhere on a dark, cold night, paid off for Mrs. Emerson Bussey. Recalling the snipe hunting technique of her high school days, Mrs. Bussey snatched a wick from the trunk of her automobile and quickly-wittedly bagged an opossum whose presence on the highway forced her to stop her car. Mrs. A. F. Elrod, with her, got out and "surrounded the possum," Mrs. Bussey related, "and he walked right into the bag."

Latin America Will Be Best Market, Speaker Declares

general opinion of American representatives were summed up in his phrase "a dumping ground for diplomats."

"Yankee ingenuity" was a term Mr. Hancock used to show the misconception of the American business man in many of the countries. He spoke of a trader who had a stock of wrist style clocks which he had purchased at about three dollars a piece. Sailing along the coast of Central America and particularly in the San Blas islands he sold the clocks as novelties to the native Indians for two ounces of gold dust per clock. He kept the boys and men weekly trip to wind the clocks at a service charge of two ounces of gold dust.

"Eight months before V-E Day the British government had launched a 'Buy British' campaign in Latin America," the speaker reported. He continued that there is not one sign saying "Buy United States."

However, the speaker believed that the United States would get about 65 to 70 per cent of the trade of those countries because the people like American products and they have the money. Adding a cheerful note he said, "I'm not too sure but that it will keep us out of a depression."

The buying power and market in Latin America is attributed to the rapid growth during the war years. Mr. Hancock spoke of the vast areas where American businesses and government have established developments to obtain the needed raw materials. Health conditions, education and living standards were improved with the living standards in general up 25 per cent above pre-war levels.

Mr. Hancock explained that a middle class is being formed. All of the people are beginning to want more of the comforts of life. He spoke of the amazing growth in industrial plants with Sao Paulo in Brazil, the Pittsburgh of the continent. Getulio Vargas, former president of Brazil, was named as a leading man in the industrial boom.

More education is advocated in all of the countries and Dr. Grau San Martin, president of Cuba, former college professor, was named as a leader in this movement.

In contrast to the important industrial and educational movements is the anti-democratic movement led by Juan Peron, "strong man of South America," Mr. Hancock described him as having a personality "very much like some of the Hitlerites...a man who is going to get everything he wants...don't trust him."

In conclusion Mr. Hancock described the tourist possibilities of Latin America predicting that within a year 50 per cent of the audience would be planning trips or would have visited the countries. He spoke of new hotels being prepared for the expected tourists, the transportation improvements and reasonable rates.

A question period followed the talk. Harold V. Clayton, vice president, presided at the meeting in the absence of the Rev. Frank L. Golinick, president. A nominating committee to select a slate of officers and two trustees for the coming club year were named as follows: Howard St. John, Harry Beatty and Mrs. Paul Jones. Kingston National Dinner Club will start its third year in May. The next meeting will be March 11 when Maxine Vollmer will be presented.

Million Dollar Contract
Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A million dollars worth of electrical equipment will be supplied by the General Electric Company for New York's Brooklyn-Battery tunnel. The company said last night that deliveries from plants in Schenectady, Philadelphia and Pittsfield, Mass., were scheduled for the summer and fall of 1948.

The equipment will include an electric "brain" to operate ventilating, lighting, safety and traffic systems. The 9,117-foot tunnel is scheduled for completion in 1949. During World War 2, U. S. manufacture of steel ingots averaged 85 millions tons annually.

5 Firms, 18 Others Named in Fraud Against W. E. Co.

Jersey City, Feb. 12 (AP)—A conspiracy to defraud the Western Electric Company of $1,235,000 is alleged in Hudson County Grand Jury indictments naming five New York and New Jersey business firms and 18 individuals.

The indictments, returned yesterday, alleged Western Electric was bilked through a system of false vouchers on which payment was made to sub-contractors for services never performed.

Anthony P. Blanken of Staten Island, New York city, identified by Deputy State Attorney General Simon L. Fisch as a "key man," was named on 10 separate counts of conspiracy. He was arrested December 14 and has been in Hudson county jail since that time under $50,000 bail.

Western Electric employees named included Myles T. Thompson, division chief in

Prices on Homes Are At Peak, Creedon Says

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon said today prices on new homes and building materials have reached their peak and "are beginning to level off."

Creedon emphasized in talking with reporters, however, he means only that prices "have stopped going up." He declined to forecast when they might start downward.

The expediter added that the housing program "has crystallized" sufficiently to allow a one-third cut in the agency's 1,150 employees. Thirty-day dismissal notices are to be issued today to 400 employees, he said.

Says Boy Ran Into Car
Ludwig V. Cohen, 69 Hasbrouck avenue, reported to the police yesterday that his car struck a young boy, about 10 years old, on Franklin street, near Furnace, about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Cohen said he was proceeding west on Franklin street, when the youngster ran into the rear of his car. The boy claimed he was uninjured and refused to identify himself, Cohen said.

Restricting Bills Are Given Slight Chance at Albany

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Legislators, weighing proposed changes in New York's election laws, today gave only a slight chance of passage to bills which would restrict minor parties.

But they listed prospects as "good" for other measures designed to prevent candidates from running under multiple party labels.

The proposed changes were considered yesterday at a legislative hearing where minority group spokesmen, spearheaded by Norman Thomas, sharply attacked the proposals.

Thomas, veteran Socialist Party leader, confined his opposition to bills by Senator Pliny Williamson, Westchester Republican, which would increase the number of votes needed for a party to stay on the ballot and boost the number of signatures required on nominating petitions.

The measures, he said, "practically compel us to be a Republican or Democrat if we want to vote."

One would require that a party receive 250,000 voters for governor, instead of the present 50,000, to stay on the ballot. The other would increase signatures needed on an independent nominating petition for statewide office from 12,000 to 25,000 of which 150, rather than 50, would have to be from each county.

Thomas said last fall's court decision in which the Socialists and other minority parties were ruled off the ballot on a nominating petition technically set a precedent in which "the right to vote is flagrantly and cynically being violated in New York state." He said the laws should be liberalized rather than stiffened.

The Williamson bills would "limit, if not prevent, opposition to the two major political parties," declared Abraham Unger of the National Lawyers' Guild New York city chapter.

Opposition to a permanent registration system was based on claims that it would be costly, would induce "patented" voting lists and would promote fraudulent registrations.

However, Senator Charles O. Hurney, Buffalo Republican, promised a separate hearing on the subject when anticipated legislation is introduced.

War Prisoners Try Suicide

Tokyo, Feb. 12 (AP)—Many of the 1,073 prisoners at Sugamo prison, where ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and other major war crimes suspects are held, have attempted suicide, allied correspondents were told today in the first group visit ever permitted at Japan's number one prison. Col. Francis W. McCrary of St. Louis, who conducted the tour, declined to name the prisoners who had attempted to end their lives.
